

Updating Projects

If project options are set properly, C++test will automatically update the project when the options source (options from a build data file, project options, etc.) changes, files are added, renamed, or deleted, and so on.